

Edna Lovering Bayonet Editor Is Reappointed

MISS EDNA LOVERING

Edna Lovering, Senior Student, Is Selected to Serve For Second Year

Edna Lovering has been re-elected to the position of editor of the "Bayonet" for the session 1935-36. This position, designated to be held by a junior, was so ably filled by Miss Lovering last term, that she will act again in her senior year.

The "Bayonet," which made its first formal appearance this year, is a publication presented by the Student Government Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, and the Athletic Association.

It is a type of handbook, dedicated expressly to the freshmen. It is sent to them before they reach the College, and intends to give them a little light on ever phases of college routine.

In previous years each organization has published its own handbook.

Miss Lovering, a commercial student, has been especially active in journalistic activities during her life on the Hill. She has served as a reporter for the Commercial Club, and as news editor of the "Bulletin." She is now the associate editor of that publication. She is a member of the Press Club, and was one of the five students who recently returned from attending the ninth annual convention of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association, which was held at Harrisonburg.

The other three members of the "Bayonet" staff, the assistant editors, have not been appointed yet. Ruby Lee Norris, Elizabeth Carswell, and Alice Cooper, served on the staff during the last session.

Chapel Program

A tentative schedule for chapel programs for the next several weeks has been announced by the chapel committee.

The International Relations Club has charge of the services on November 15. The following Tuesday, the Freshman Commission will present a short program. To close that week, Miss Eva Taylor Eppes will conduct a short service. On November 26, Alpha Phi Sigma will take charge of the program.

Plans for chapel programs after the Thanksgiving holidays have not been completed.

Posture Day Miss "Good Posture" Chosen

The Individual Gymnastics Class is sponsoring the annual Posture Day at the college, Wednesday, November 13. This morning each member of the student body and faculty were given a tag with the appropriate wording "Posture Expresses Personality." To keep the tag one must have good posture in walking, standing and sitting positions, at all times.

On Wednesday evening, tonight, each class will select one girl as its representative of good posture. From the four class representatives one girl will be chosen as the optimum example of good posture. Members of the faculty will act as judges, and the usual criteria of good posture will be the factors in determining the girl who is to represent the college.

Extensive advertising of posture day has been evidenced by the numerous posters, caricatures, and other displays. The committee, selected from the Individual Gymnastics Class to supervise and execute Posture Day, is headed by Miss Helen Taylor. Other members of the class will act as Posture Police throughout the day. It is the duty of the Posture Police to request any student's tag who is not in keeping with the standards of good carriage. All students must comply with a Posture Police's demand for her tag by surrendering it.

This is the second of a series of projects backed by the Individual Gymnastics Class in an effort to benefit the students. A recent feature was the display of shoes designed to avoid pedic abnormalities.

Formal Reception Announced For Friday Night

Government Council to Receive Members of The Student Body

The annual Student Council reception will be held in Seacobeck Hall, Friday evening, November 15. Student Council members will form the receiving line promptly at eight o'clock.

Invitations have been sent to the faculty members and the student body as a whole. After the receiving line has been disbanded, dancing will be enjoyed by the group in attendance. Music will be furnished by Roland Leveque's Orchestra.

The north unit of the hall, where the affair will take place, is to be decorated with the autumn colors interspersed with chrysanthemums, potted plants, and palms. Refreshments will be served buffet style while Mrs. Charles L. Bushnell will preside at the punch bowl.

of physical education at the Women's College at North Carolina, will be the guest speaker at Convocation tonight.

For several years, Miss Coleman has been connected with the N.C.C.W. which is located at Greensboro. She has served as president of the American Physical Education Association, and is, therefore, well known throughout the Southern States.

The physical education department of the College is planning numerous activities to entertain Miss Coleman during her visit on the Hill. Arrangements have been made for all majors and minors in physical education and members of the Athletic Association to meet with Miss Coleman in the little gym for a round-table discussion on any topic following the departmental line.

After making several visits in other sections of the state, Miss Coleman is scheduled to speak at the annual teachers' meeting to be held at the John Marshall High School in Richmond, during the Thanksgiving holidays.

It has become a yearly event for the physical education department of the College to invite some outstanding worker in the field to visit the school and to speak on a convocation program. Last year, Dr. J. B. Nash, of the New York University was the guest of the department.

Y. W. Benefit Is Postponed Until Nov. 20

"The Intimate Strangers" To Be Presented at Later Date Because of Illness

"The Intimate Strangers," a play to be performed by the Dramatic Club for the benefit of the Y.W.C.A., will be presented on November 20. The performance, originally scheduled for production on November 8, was postponed because of the illness of Miss Roberta Barnett, sponsor of the Dramatic Club, who is directing the cast. Also because of several minor casualties to members of the cast, it was deemed advisable to advance the date of presentation.

The plot of the play presents the trials and tribulations of a middle-aged bachelor who suddenly finds himself tossed between two loves, one a young "hussy in breeches," as he terms her, and the other old-fashioned girl of his dreams. His troubles become more complicated when he tries to straighten out the family relations.

GERMAN ELECTS PREXY MISS VERNIE BLANKINSHIP

MISS VERNIE BLANKINSHIP

Social Club Selects Officers And Plans Program For the Year

Vernie Blankinship, recently elected president of the German Club, will lead the figure at the first dance of the club to be given December 7.

Selected to be next in the grand march, which opens each German, are Mary Miller, a junior, as secretary; and Alice Rife, a sophomore, who will act as treasurer of the group. The leader, Miss Blankinship, is a senior.

Definite plans for the dance have not been announced, but it is believed that the procedure followed in previous years will be in order. Each girl is allowed two stags beside her date on her assessment. The dances are arranged and the figure worked out by the president of the group. German club members, supplemented by girls who have attended one dance, previously, make up the line for the figure. A local orchestra will furnish the music.

The German Club, made up of girls who have attended two or more dances given by the club, is the only organization of its kind on the Hill. It tends to promote a high social atmosphere among the girls, and stands for better ballroom etiquette, the best form of dancing and proper dress.

The sponsors give at least two formal dances each session.

Mrs. Charles Lake Bushnell will be sponsor for the affair. Wives of faculty members and married members of the faculty have been asked to serve as patronesses.

Because of the large number who wished to attend the dance, a new plan for selection of the personnel attending the dance had to be worked out. German club members had the preference. Seniors and juniors were then given a preference over the sophomores and freshmen. About seventy-five students will attend the dance.

The officers are selected for their social graces, their appearance in

Sophomore Class Undertakes New Health Project

$15 Appropriated to Be Used To Furnish Milk For Undernourished

Acting upon a suggestion from a member of the class who is a student teacher in the training school, the sophomore class has appropriated fifteen dollars to be expended to furnish milk for children in the school who do not receive the proper nourishment in their own homes.

The milk, which is supplied to eleven students out of a class of forty-five, is served at noontime. This plan is being worked out in the first grade. The present appropriation will last until Christmas. It is hoped that other classes or organizations on the Hill will see fit to furnish the amount necessary to carry these underprivileged children through the school year.

The cost of each bottle of milk is but three cents, or to supply this vital need for the children who would not get the attention elsewhere, it costs but thirty-three cents a day.

The money was appropriated by the sophomores from the balance that was carried forward at the end of their year as freshmen.

"Foolscap" Is Name Of VIPA New Magazine

Title of Humor Magazine Is Selected as Result of Southwide Contest

"Foolscap" has been selected as the name of the magazine to be issued by the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association. This name was chosen as the result of a contest in which the person submitting the most appropriate title was awarded a prize of five dollars. It was formerly known as "The Southern Comic".

The magazine is, primarily, of a humorous nature, containing jokes, funny stories, anecdotes, cartoons, and sketches.

The material published in this magazine is to be furnished solely by student contributors from the colleges and universities that offer the periodical for sale. The Bulletin is handling the sale of the publication on the Hill. Every student therefore is invited to send in any material of a humorous quality that she feels worthy of print in a magazine of this type.

Any manuscripts should be addressed to "The Southern Comic," Box 885, Richmond, Va. All material will be published with due credit to the author and the college.

The magazine is being presented as typical of southern collegiate life. It is planned with the hope that it will satisfy a need for a high-class magazine of a genuinely humorous quality. The exchange of campus notes is expected to appeal to a great majority of the college population.

The Bulletin has contracted to pay for a certain number of copies of each issue of the publication. These will be offered for re-sale on the campus. The College paper will realize a small profit from the re-sale of the copies, which are fifteen cents each.

If the student body shows a demand for more copies, the number specified in the contract, will be increased. The first issue of the "Foolscap" is expected off the press at the end of this month.

Some smart lad at New York University has found a new way to crib. It seems that notes written on spectacles or watch-crystal in grapefruit juice become visible when breathed upon.

NOTICE

The editor stands correction as to the accuracy of the information contained in the editorial titled "A Word to the Juniors" which ran in the last issue of the "Bulletin."

One of the errors of said editorial was in the statement which said heretofore one major and one minor were sufficient for a graduate receiving a degree. The corrected statement reads thus: Heretofore one major and TWO minors or TWO majors were sufficient for a graduate receiving a degree. Under the new catalog a student must have ONE major and TWO minors rather than two majors. This change in the requirements was made because the President of the College and the State Board of Education felt that students with two majors were too highly specialized and that with one major and two minors they would receive a broader and more liberal education.

It is hoped that the student body will make note of the corrections which have been made.

Inconsistency

We commemorated Armistice Day last Monday, November 11. Did we do so with a spirit of sympathy for those who died in previous wars, or as a denouncement of future war, or as a tribute to our victory in the last war?

It is dubious whether or not we'd all give the same answer to that question. At any rate, we chance in our opinions from day to day, subconsciously perhaps, but inevitably, nevertheless. We, as a populace and as individuals, are inconsistent—alarmingly so! An example of gross inconsistency follows:

Alfred Nobel, donor of the Peace Prize, was the first man to make, successfully and safely, nitroglycerine, which is used in making one of the most dangerous explosives known. In this way, he was aiding and abetting the manufacturers of munitions who had been somewhat retarded in the making of nitroglycerine explosives because of the danger involved.

The inconsistency of this incident lies in the fact that a man who could lend his genius toward the furthering of war by the making of nitroglycerine explosives would lend equally as much effort and enthusiasm toward the furthering of peace. It makes us stop and wonder!

Are You Keeping Up?

"The world is too much with us . . ." Wordsworth has said, but just how true is this in regard to college students as a whole?

In an address, recently given by Dr. Blackwell to the student body, he pointed out that American college students are all too prone to live in a world of their own, which is usually far removed from the activities of our present-day world. He said that students today, however, are beginning to take an interest in the current activities of this world of ours. The increases in classes of current history, sociology, and other social science subjects show this.

How does Fredericksburg State Teachers College stand in relation to other colleges, in regard to these interests? Many of us will soon be out in the world, with only ourselves to rely on. We should, therefore, be familiar with the conditions and situations into which we are going to be thrust.

As college graduates we will be expected to be up on current events. Is this true? We have many opportunities to keep up with outside affairs, but many of us do not take advantage of them. The International Relations Club, and other classes and organizations on the hill, are vitally interested in these things.

Let us not in our eagerness to learn rules and theories neglect the most useful and most important side of our education!

A Matter of Bells

On Friday at 12:25 a bell rings in all dormitories and in Monroe. It is the same bell that rings every other day in the week but on that day and on Tuesday it has a different tone. Something about it makes people climb stairs—the well-worn stairs of Monroe. It causes them to go within the auditorium and take their accustomed places therein. It tells them that they are to expect a brief chapel service.

The lamentable thing, the shortcoming of that bell lies in that it does not click with that inner mechanism that controls the tongue. It does not make immediate contact in conveying the thought that the time for silence and reverence is at hand. Because of that failure the soft musical background goes unheard, and the commencing of the brief program is delayed causing loss of the minutes that are precious in that they are so few.

It becomes a sad plight indeed and an occasion to bring a blush to the cheek of the most carefree, when a down-town speaker finds it necessary to tactfully remind his listeners that he will not detain them for long. If such a state of indifference should happen to continue some measures would undoubtedly become necessary.

Maybe we would be forced to get a new bell—come pledges of Alpha Tau Pi. They were Elizabeth Clark, Jack Clark, Alice Phillips and Mrs. Thurston. We are hoping these girls will become members in the winter initiation.

Leaders Club

The Leaders Club, composed of the Presidents of all the organizations on the hill, met Thursday, October 24th night to elect their officers.

A. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Athletic Association was held on Thursday, October 24. The meeting was called to order by the president and the secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting. After the minutes were read and approved discussion of the eligibility for the freshman hockey team was taken up. The question under discussion was the advisability of two hockey teams for the purpose of more student participation. The association voted to leave the matter to the A. A. council to act as it sees fit.

After this the heads of various sports for this quarter lead a discussion on the problems and projects of her particular sport.

The association was then informed of the opportunity of having a visiting hockey coach to spend a week end for the purpose of helpful criticism of our major sport for the fall. The association voted to ask Miss Bailey of Baltimore to come on the week end of November 1.

As there was no other business to be taken up the meeting was adjourned.

Lorrene Potter

At Williamsburg Baptist Meeting

Lorrene Potter was a delegate to the convention of Virginia chapters of the Baptist Students Union, which was held at Williams and Mary last week end. Miss Potter addressed the delegates Saturday morning. Her topic was "The Master's Minority Hour—What It Is."

Practically every college in the state sent representatives to the meetings, the first of which opened the conference Friday night. William Lawton, president of the Virginia association, who is a student at Washington-Lee University, presided at the meeting.

Following devotional services, the Women's Missionary Society of the Williamsburg Church, gave an informal reception for the visitors at the opening meeting. Saturday's program included talks by a number of prominent Baptist ministers and several representative students. A banquet was tendered the delegates Saturday night.

EXCHANGES

Gatekeepers at Ohio State University have a novel method for deciding whether you're sober enough to enter the stadium. If you can wiggle your thumbs in unison, you are O.K. Otherwise you can watch the game from a pole.—The Bracket-Ack.

Sophomore to Freshman: "You're so dumb that you think our basketball coach runs on four wheels."

Cheerful Cherub Says:

Dodging work is an art with some students who rarely fail to take a bow for the results accomplished.

Society

Around and around they go—but unlike Major Bagwies' wheel of chance—we know where they will stop!

And the week-enders still hold the stage. "Goin' home" should be the theme song for Dot McMullen, Lucie Reynolds (who, we have been led to believe, does not like to have her name in print), Billie Adams, Mary Woody Chapman, Margaret Steele, Catherine Snellings, Becky Davidson, Rubynette Young, Audrey Davis, Frances Brooks, Miriam Carpenter, Florence Massie, Margaret Emerick, Louise Otley, Naomi Whitman, Mary and Margaret Lowe, Elmyra Williams, Edna Daniels, Edna Poleman, Elizabeth Fearman, Margaret Gibbons, Charlotte Young, Margaret House, and many others, too numerous to list.

Among those who entertained in their own homes have been Anne Campbell, who played hostess to Charlotte Robinson; Regina Brown, who took Bill Easley down to Northern Neck; Lucie Reynolds, who did double duty in honor of Frances Royster and Casey Greene; Virginia Cooley who did a follow-up by digging down for Virginia Fisher and Juanita Stokes; Tillie Burt who took her partner, Edith Weeks home for some real dancing; and Anne Edwards, who put up with Nancy Vaughn and Minnie Conann.

Mary Digs gave the once-over to Washington the same time Marjorie Eastman decided to give the big city a break. Ann Terrell chased off to Quantico about that time. Also taking in Washington was Evelyn Tuttle, Frances E. Smith, and "Cat" Chamberlain.

Miss Grace Taylor was a guest at the dance given by Miss Anna Paige Greene in honor of Duff and Martha Haffey Greene, the newlyweds. The wedding took place in Macon Georgia, several weeks ago. Nona Decker Higgins took her little sister, Betty, up to Washington to visit Mr. Higgins, devoted better half of the aforementioned. Sara Catherine Goodson pulled out for Manassas to visit an aunt, while Nancy Herr went "t'home." (And, she got all the way to town before she realized she hadn't signed out—she prised herself back and attended to that small, but oh! so important, matter, though!)

Virginia Northam was one of those lucky gals who turned out in Richmond in her "best" to stagger the stag line.

Mickie McDowell and Phil Weatherford also got down for the Hampden-Sydney Richmond game. Ella Gordon Rowe put in appearance in Richmond for the big doin's, too.

Jo Grant has a raccoon coat, Ann Lipscomb plays the piano, and Helen Taylor knows a Republican. How long will it take them to become rich? Madness sets in here!

"You can fool some of the people some of the time, but the rest of the time some one else will fool them." This is a column. And this is the end. Don't push.

COLLIER'S EDITOR ADVISES VIPA

Chenery Outlines Future Journalism

Dr. William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's Weekly, addressed the delegates of the V.I.P.A. convention which met in Harrisonburg, at the State Teachers College, for its annual conference during the week-end of the first of November.

The content of Dr. Chenery's message consisted for the most part of an outline of the opportunities in the field of journalism for the youth of today.

"If you like to write, then journalism may have much to offer you. If I were prescribing a course for a prospective journalist I would suggest the most thorough general education possible. I think the general courses which lead to graduation in our colleges are quite as useful as courses designed especially for journalists. I am not impressed by the schools of professional journalism. I am not opposed to them.

"Beyond the preliminary stages the journalist has need of all the training in research methods, all of understanding and background which the best of the colleges can impart. For the situation with which journalists must deal cover the whole field of human knowledge. A newspaperman has the opportunity to use all of the skill and all of the intelligence he possesses.

"The ambitious young journalist, accordingly, is, in my opinion, well advised to seek his first experience in the smaller communities in which work is less specialized and the pace less rapid.

"Newspapers and magazines are, under the law, given great freedom because from the very beginning of the Republic the importance of providing information to voters was recognized. As you scrutinize the field, you are sure to be impressed by the part played in our life by well edited small newspapers."

The delegates from Fredericksburg who were privileged to hear Dr. Chenery speak were Mary Frances Rowe and Louise Jennings, editor and business manager, respectively, of the Battlefield; Edna Lovering, editor of the Bayonet; and Abbie Bourke and Audrey Rose, editor and business manager, respectively, of the Bullet.

Kenmore Gives View of Times; Is Interesting

On the corner of Washington Avenue and Lewis Street is a stately brick mansion around whose garden stands a high brick wall. Within these grounds much history is concealed and were those great rooms of this typical colonial Georgian house given the power of speech, undoubtedly many secrets of the Lewis household would be revealed.

Kenmore was built in 1752 by Col. Fielding Lewis for his young bride, Betty Washington, whom he married when she was just fifteen years of age. Although very young, Mrs. Lewis was noted for her charm and hospitality. Almost every great man of the era it is said, visited at Kenmore. General George Washington was a frequent visitor, as his diary shows. Upon one occasion Betty returned home to find her brother, who had just returned from Yorktown, asleep upon her best bed with his boots on.

All of the young belles and beaux and distinguished matrons and mothers danced at the balls and dined. Without a doubt the wide boards at the reception room floor, are the only ones which have not been replaced by new ones, in the whole house, served as a firm foundation for the numerous gay occasions. In this room is a unique panel designed by George Washington for his sister's house with moral lessons carved in plaster parais, these lessons were taught to the Lewis children. The carvings on the walls and ceiling were done by Hessian prisoners under the direction of a French artist. These have been compared by the Geographic magazine to the decorations of the Palace at Versailles.

When, on Saturday afternoon you are down town, stop by Kenmore and have tea by the open fire place in the quaint kitchen.

1935-36 Elections Held For V.I.P.A.

At the recent VIPA Conference in Harrisonburg the officers for next year's convention were elected. William Thomas of Newport News has been named president of the VIPA for the 1935-36 year as successor to Miss Virginia Cox of Harrisonburg State Teachers College.

The secretary-treasurer also comes from William and Mary College. The Association is fortunate in being able to retain Alex Hudgins as executive secretary for the ensuing year.

Vice-presidents of the Associations have been chosen from the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee University, Farmville State Teachers College, and Virginia Intermont. The executive committee is made up of the above officers and representatives from Harrisonburg S.T.C., Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Stratford College, and American University.

The 1936 Convention will be held next October at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. Other invitations that the 1936 Convention to be held at their schools were received from Fredericksburg S.T.C., and the University of Virginia. Washington and Lee extended invitation for the 1937 Convention.

TEST-TIME CULMINATES

As we think back over last week there looms up the picture of girls actually refusing to go to town, to the tea-room, and even to wait for the seven o'clock rising bell (instead they were up bent over the book of knowledge before the bell sounded!) Breakfast was thought of in terms of a necessary ordeal to be hurried through as quick as a flash in order to be back and keep-in' company with the books from which we crammed and crammed. Or did we? In other words it was test time on the hill!

We burned the midnight oil and arose at the crack of dawn 'cause there were tests and more tests that had to be studied.

On to class and the deed was done—or, at any rate, it was over! "They always ask exactly what I didn't study," was on the lips of woe-begone students as they left the rooms of anguish. Long hours of interim before the verdict was heard.

At some one time or another everybody that had a right arm spent hours writing 'n' writing pages in hopes that perhaps the right answer would be in the midst of their rambling dissertations. The aftermath of the test is that perhaps after all of that writing you didn't get the answer right. Most of us agree that tests run hand in hand with jangly nerves! If so, why do we insist upon taking 'em day after day???

One professor on the "hill" contends that we inevitably do that thing which we prefer to do—in other words we always have a choice. Consequently, strange as it may seem, tests must be the lesser of two evils or else why would we go on and on?

Anyway, it's a relief to say "No more tests for a while!!"

'Peace' Theme Of Armistice Day Service

General Lyman Is Guest Speaker At Chapel Service On Monday

General Charles H. Lyman, of Quantico Marine Base, was speaker at chapel services on Monday, November 11, Armistice Day. Members of the local chapter of the American Legion were in attendance at the program.

Initiating a schedule for observance of the memorial day, a period of two-minutes silence was observed at eleven o'clock Monday morning. The Y.W.C.A. introduced this idea to the College with a two-fold aim: 1. as a memorial to those who gave their lives in a great war; 2. as a pledge of each to the continuance of peace in the world today.

Carrying out a note of simplicity the chapel decorations for the day included the display of the colors and suggestive wartime posters.

"Whatever one does one is always alone in this world. One may be always explaining oneself, but one is never understood." — Anatole Franc.

Observance of Posture Day is Health Project

"Your Carriage, Madam" is Motto For Scheme Planned Yearly

The question for discussion today seems to be "your carriage, Madam!" (Sounds like a vehicle on four wheels and drawn by four steeds.) After a close observation, we find that a certain group is merely emphasizing a health project.

Several strong arms of the law are at their beats on the lookout for slouching racketeers, slumping gamblers, raring gangsters, and reclining speeders.

You short girls are to remember not to square those shoulders so that you appear to have seen a mir-

ODE TO POSTURE

Good posture is an asset
Which very few possess;
Sad to relate, the favored ones
Seem to be growing less.

We see the folks around us
All slumped down in a heap
And the way people navigate
Is enough to make you weep.

Don't thrust your head out turtlewise;
Don't hunch your shoulders so;
Don't sag, and drag yourself around;
No style to that you know.

Just square your shoulders to the world,
You're not the sort to quit,
"It isn't the load that breaks us down,
It's the way we carry it."

acile, for miracles just don't happen. And you tall girls stop that humping 'cause you're only accentuating the fact that you're head and shoulders above the rest of us. Remember, a straight line is the shortest distance between two points.

Fat girls, skinny girls, tall girls, and short girls—we might go so far as to say fat, skinny girls—whoo—that won't do! We'll just try again: fat, short girls; tall skinny girls—and so far into the night. All of which is meant to imply that any and everyone is expected to be at their best and to keep tagging along all day long.

Keep straight: give your food a chance to go down and your brain a little more room! Maybe, if you're good children, you'll have a little ticket that you can put in your scrap book to commemorate that memorable day that you weren't caught breaking the rules of good posture.

Tag along all day long. Give John Law a break—he's got a date with the new maid in the house next door!

There is actually one girl student at Lindsay College, Lindsay, Ont., Can., whose ambition is to become "a good wife for some man." The others, a survey revealed, would like to become teachers, nurses, stenographers, dieticians, writers or interior decorators. Would-be teachers led the list.

For dress, the new purple blue is superb. You might wear a bright blue coat over a black dress, or a bright blue dress with a dull green coat. Deepest burgundy with lots of brown and purple in it, is a color combination to try. Put bright green and chartreuse yellow-green together in a suit, or dress and coat. Don't be afraid to wear a green-blue suit with dark red blouse. Wear brown flared coat with a black, brown, and string plaid skirt. To be quite correct you might wear a dark cactus-green coat over a fuchsia dress. A fuchsia suit with dark blue leather frogs is something new. Brown velveteen is superior with a scarf in soft yellow.

Something chic and smart is an evening dress made of blue taffeta, with draped puffed sleeves, a low "v" neck line, and a full and flowing skirt which is divine for dancing. An attractive evening wrap to go with the dress is one made of broad-caded white velvet, designed like a Persian tunic, with a Queen Anne collar.

At night you might be just a little mysterious in grape-red, olive-green, or two color changeable materials in deep tones. For sensation you might flaunt bright orange, bright green, purple, sapphire-blue. If you want to be very different get yourself some ribbed wool stockings to match your sweaters.

The chief of the Chippewa Indian tribe said that war paint was all right for his ancestral braves, but the youngsters aren't going to get away with it, at least not on their toenails. The order was precipitated by Mino-Ki-Sh-Coac (Lady Beautiful Sky) when she appeared on the streets wearing sandals—with ten brightly vermillioned toe nails peeping out. "That stuff," said the chief, "may be all right for some, but it doesn't get by with us."

Sort of looks like we're stealing the Indians' "stuff," the way some of us decorate our fingers and toes in the so-called war paint. And tinted nails are still in vogue, so keep to it!!!

Classes Plan Year's Program

Completing class elections, the list of freshmen class officers now includes Virginia Anderson, vice-president; Betty Boggs, secretary; and Miriam Carpenter, treasurer. Miss Lola Minch, a professor in the commercial department, has been appointed as sponsor for the class.

Two officers of the sophomore class were reelected to fill the same positions in which they served last year. Edith Weeks will continue as class secretary, while Lillian Boswell will still have the class funds in her name in the bank. Irene Blasdel was elected to the office of vice-president, and Miss Grace Taylor was chosen as sponsor for the group. The class is making plans for a convocation and a "pop" program.

Mrs. J. H. Dodd has been chosen as sponsor for the junior class. The class is making plans for a benefit to be presented in December and pictures of class members are now being made for the Battlefield.

The senior benefit is scheduled for December 6. The class has taken over the duty of caring for the flag until Christmas.

"Little America" Film Is Feature

"Little America," an actual picture taken on the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, was the first picture to be shown at the College this year. Last Friday, Nov. 8, was the date on which it was shown.

The action of the show, which was both educational and spectacular with a bit of the humorous, took the audience from Newport News, Va. from which the vessels which transported the members of the expedition to the "unknown, left, to the bottom of the earth.

On account of the actual discovery of the South Pole, of Commander Byrd's solitary vigil of five months, and of the human side of the life in the small city of Little America, all held the note of suspense and surprise that satisfied the audience.

A cartoon "short" completed the program.

We Asked Why

Editor's Note.—This is the second of a series of articles to be published as to why various students have chosen their particular field in which to specialize. This article is concerned with several commercial majors and their choice.

Harriet Bruce, president of the Commercial Club, decided to major in commercial education because she thought it was a good "two-in-one" course. Harriet couldn't decide between a business or teaching career. Harriet also wants a knowledge of the functions and organization of the present-day economic and business world. Even if she decides not to go into either of these types of work, Harriet believes that budgeting would be advantageous to her.

Ethel Nelson, our very competent Student Council secretary, decided to major in Commercial in college for several reasons. But she wants to get a teachers certificate in Commercial Education, she says, so that she can teach the hooks and curves of the keyboard to defenseless little boys and girls. I don't imagine Ethel would turn down a secretarial position in Washington, however!

The business world seems to hold some great fascination for "Buff" Haley, one of our Junior highlights. She says that there is just something about business that never becomes monotonous. "Buff" must be banking rather heavily on those wedding bells, for she chose commercial, it seems, because it makes no difference whether a skilled worker is married or not. But what do you suppose is her main reason for taking a commercial course? She thinks it is a good idea for us Fredericksburg girls to be trained in taking orders from the opposite sex. "After all," says "Buff," "they think that's our place in life." Would you have ever thought it of "Buff" Haley? She's gone back on womankind!

Mary Ellen Mitchell, a sophisticated Sophomore who came to our ranks from Georgia, has very specific and business-like ambitions in this old world. She wants to have a practical knowledge of the business world, which, she says, is so important in our modern life. Mary Ellen is preparing for a superior office position as stenographer or secretary.

"All the world's a stage—" says Shakespeare, but he isn't the only one who thinks so. Mary Diggs, one of our most attractive Freshmen, who is excelling in dramatics, uses this as one of her reasons for being a commercial major. Mary says that you feel like a part of this busy old world, when doing office work. Mary also says that the

College Players Attend State-Wide Hockey Meet

Conference at William and Mary Attracts Representatives of Virginia Schools

Over the last week-end a group of representative hockey players from the College attended their third annual hockey tournament held this year at William and Mary. Other colleges who sent delegates to the conference included Harrisonburg, Sweet Briar, Farmville, Westhampton, the Richmond and Norfolk Divisions of William and Mary, and William and Mary.

The games scheduled to be run off during the tournament included contests between colleges, between reserves, between alumnae, and between coaches of teams. Other games were played by teams made up of representatives from two or three different schools.

The scores of the games or the winners of the tournament were not announced as the idea of these tournaments is not to find the best players but to study the fine points of the game, to further a feeling of good sportsmanship among players on the field, and for the fun that playing the game offers to a participant. It is at these tournaments that an all-Virginia and Virginia reserve hockey team are selected.

The first game, which was held Friday afternoon, was played off by William and Mary Norfolk Extension and Fredericksburg. The girls from the Hill made a mental note of the fact that they scored two goals and kept their opponents from the goal most effectively.

The other game in which PSTC players participated was run off Saturday morning with a team composed of stars from the Mary Baldwin team, who played the backfield; and The Randolph-Macon Women's College delegates, who played the forward line. Although no score was made by either team, the game was fast and interesting to the audience.

The rest of the time was spent by the Fredericksburg team in watching other games, in viewing a film on the fine points of coaching and refereeing hockey, and attending the several luncheons and social gatherings that were planned for the visitors by the Williamsburg hostesses.

On Saturday afternoon, the Virginia and the reserve teams which had been selected throughout the course of the tournament and announced that morning, played off the final game of the schedule. Miss Perle Young of the Fredericksburg faculty was elected to the team and made quite a showing during the afternoon in the position of wing.

At a business meeting of the Virginia Field Hockey Association, Miss Bertha Kirk, head of the physical education department of Fredericksburg, was elected to the position of secretary-treasurer of the organization.

During the conference, the delegates were entertained at luncheon, where hockey players made of yellow and green (William and Mary colors) yarn were given as favors; and at a tea, tendered by the Morlar Board Fraternity. The players attended this gathering in tunics and guards, and carried hockey sticks.

Alumnae Hockey Game Scheduled

The Alumnae-Varsity hockey game is scheduled to be played off on November 23. This annual event, which serves as a home-coming program, usually brings to the College many former students and graduates.

The members of the honorary varsity team will be selected from all four classes of the school. This squad of players, who have been practicing rather than competing throughout the entire hockey season, will be opposed by a group of alumnae, many of whom will be together for the first time in a year. Many of the older girls squad probably have not played the game since last season. It is surprising, though, how well this team shows up under competition. Enthusiasm is always high in anticipation of this game, for keen rivalry is offered from both sides.

All alumnae members of the Athletic Association have been sent invitations to attend this contest. The association, under the direction of Helen Harris, is planning various forms of entertainment for the expected visitors. The event is sponsored by the organization with a view to renewing old ties among former college students and their associates still in attendance on the Hill.

Sophomores Win In Frosh Contest

On Saturday, November 3, the Sophomores captured honors from the Freshmen in a 2-1 score in the Hockey run-ups this year. Shortly after the game started the 1st Classmen rushed the opponents goal and succeeded in scoring. At the bully after the goal the Sophomore forward line gained advantage, passed through the 1st Classmen's back line into the striking circle, and a hard drive into the cage registered a goal for the Sophomores.

The Freshman back line cleared the ball successfully into the opponents striking circle late in the first half, and though they were close the Freshmen squad's numerous attempts to score were unsuccessful. Before time was called the Freshmen again attacked the Sophomores cage area, but because of the off-side position of the forward line did not score.

After the center bully in the beginning of the 2nd period the Sophomores gained possession of the ball and crashed through the Freshmen defense line for another score. The Freshmen circle renewed their forces and began a vigorous rally to advance the ball into the opponents area. The Sophomores back field provided superb interference which kept the Freshmen team in hand until the finish of the last half leaving the final score 2-1 in favor of the Sophomores.

In the Sophomore-Senior Hockey game which was played last Wednesday, November 6th, the Sophomores were defeated 1-3 by the Seniors.

In the beginning of the 1st half both Sophomores and Seniors strove to attack each other's goal-posts only to be disappointed by not being able to score. However, three minutes before the 1st half ended the Sophomores' forward line stamped a ball into the cage for a score.

Following the completion of the center bully in the second half, the Seniors broke into the scoring column. Both wings and inside forwards of the Senior team outlasted the Sophomores' defense work and used some long drives into the striking circle before being marked by the retaining full back. With the ball this close to the goal area the Seniors rushed the cage and scored one. Toward the close of the second period the Senior attack again overpowered the Sophomores. A well aimed clearing shot from the Senior back line was received by the center forward and dribbled down for another goal. Then almost directly after the bully was taken at center the Seniors rushed the opponents cage again to make a score of 3.

Juniors Successful In Senior Contest

Saturday, November 2nd, the Juniors defeated the Seniors 4-0 in their annual hockey game this season. The Red Devils led consistently throughout, beginning with a 2-0 advantage gained during the first half of the game. A penalty corner gave an opening for the first goal for the Juniors, then a clever pass to the forward line and a rush through opponents goal sent the ball into the cage a few minutes after the game started. Following constant reinforcement from the back line the third classmen passed through the opponents defense for another goal close to the end of the first half.

The Juniors used substitutions score against the lower classmen.

The Freshmen were forced to play a defensive game in an attempt to off-set the 4th Classmen's tricky passwork. After considerable scrimmage in the center of the field the Senior backs sent the ball to right wing for a long pass into the Freshmen's cage for a goal. It took the same combination to score the next point in less than five minutes for the Seniors.

With the beginning of the second half the Freshmen team was taken by the Seniors, the ball was sent to the forward line then rushed into the 1st Classmen's goal for another score to the Seniors credit.

After crossing sticks at center the Freshmen played fast and furiously toward the upper classmen's goal but were unable to drive through the striking circle. Several minutes before the last half ended the Senior half checked the Freshmen's attack. The forward line sent a long drive into the opponents' goal, adding another point to the Seniors' three making a total of 4-0 in favor of the Seniors.

freely in the last half, planning several different combinations to offset the keen rally of the Senior team.

The "Senior" squad threatened the Juniors' half of the field early in the second half and hammered at the Devil cage repeatedly. Accurate defensive play sent the ball down to the Juniors' forward line time after time. In the last few minutes the third classmen, did some smooth zig-zag passing into the opponents cage for a third goal and a fast centered ball from the wing added another tally for the Juniors before the final whistle.

College Players Attend State-Wide Hockey Meet

Conference at William and Mary Attracts Representatives Of Virginia Schools

Over the last week-end a group of representative hockey players from the College attended their third annual hockey tournament held this year at William and Mary. Other colleges who sent delegates to the conference included Harrisonburg, Sweet Briar, Farmville, Westhampton, the Richmond and Norfolk Divisions of William and Mary, and William and Mary.

The games scheduled to be run off during the tournament included contests between colleges, between reserves, between alumnae, and between coaches of teams. Other games were played by teams made up of representatives from two or three different schools.

The scores of the games or the winners of the tourney were not announced as the idea of these tournaments is not to find the best players but to study the fine points of the game, to further a feeling of good sportsmanship among players on the field, and for the fun that playing the game offers to a participant. It is at these tournaments that an all-Virginia and Virginia reserve hockey team are selected.

The first game, which was held Friday afternoon, was played off by William and Mary Norfolk Extension and Fredericksburg. The girls from the Hill made a mental note of the fact that they scored two goals and kept their opponents from the goal most effectively.

The other game in which FSTC players participated was run off Saturday morning with a team composed of stars from the Mary Baldwin team, who played the backfield; and The Randolph-Macon Women's College delegates, who played the forward line. Although no score was made by either team, the game was fast and interesting to the audience.

The rest of the time was spent by the Fredericksburg team in watching other games, in viewing a film on the fine points of coaching and refereeing hockey, and attending the several luncheons and social gatherings that were planned for the visitors by the Williamsburg hostesses.

On Saturday afternoon, the Virginia and the reserve teams which had been selected throughout the course of the tournament and announced that morning, played off the final game of the schedule. Miss Perle Young of the Fredericksburg faculty was elected to the team and made quite a showing during the afternoon in the position of wing.

At a business meeting of the Virginia Field Hockey Association, Miss Bertha Kirk, head of the physical education department of Fredericksburg, was elected to the position of secretary-treasurer of the organization.

During the conference, the delegates were entertained at luncheon, where hockey players made of yellow and green (William and Mary colors) yarn were given as favors; and at a tea, tendered by the Mortar Board Fraternity. The players attended this gathering in unities and guards, and carried hockey-sticks.

Alumnae Hockey Game Scheduled

The Alumnae-Varsity hockey game is scheduled to be played off on November 23. This annual event, which serves as a home-coming program, usually brings to the College many former students and graduates.

The members of the honorary varsity team will be selected from all four classes of the school. This squad of players, who have been practicing rather consistently throughout the entire hockey season, will be opposed by a group of alumnae, many of whom will be together for the first time in a year. Many of the older girls squad probably have not played the game since last season. It is surprising, though, how well this team shows up under competition. Enthusiasm is always high in anticipation of this game, for keen rivalry is offered from both sides.

All alumnae members of the Athletic Association have been sent invitations to attend this contest. The association, under the direction of Helen Harris, is planning various forms of entertainment for the expected visitors. The event is sponsored by the organization with a view to renewing old ties among former college students and their associates still in attendance on the Hill.

Sophomores Win In Frosh Contest

On Saturday, November 3, the Sophomores captured honors from the Freshmen in a 2-1 score in the Hockey run-ups this year. Shortly after the game started the 1st Classmen rushed the opponents goal and succeeded in scoring. At the bully after the goal the Sophomore forward line gained advantage, passed through the 1st Classmen's back line into the striking circle, and a hard drive into the cage registered a goal for the Sophomores.

The Freshmen back line cleared the ball successfully into the opponents striking circle late in the first half, and though they were close the Freshmen squad's numerous attempts to score were unsuccessful. Before time was called the Freshmen again attacked the Sophomores cage area, but because of the off-side position of the forward line did not score.

After the center bully in the beginning of the 2nd period the Sophomores gained possession of the ball and crashed through the Freshmen defense line for another score. The Freshmen circle renewed their forces and began a vigorous rally to advance the ball into the opponents area. The Sophomores back field provided superb interference which kept the Freshmen team in hand until the finish of the last half leaving the final score 2-1 in favor of the Sophomores.

In the Sophomore-Senior Hockey game which was played last Wednesday, November 6th, the Sophomores were defeated 1-3 by the Seniors.

In the beginning of the 1st half both Sophomores and Seniors strove to attack each other's goal-posts only to be disappointed by not being able to score. However, three minutes before the 1st half ended the Sophomores' forward line stamped the Seniors goal area and rushed a ball into the cage for a score.

Following the completion of the center bully in the second half, the Seniors broke into the scoring column. Both wings and inside forwards of the Senior team outclassed the Sophomores defense work and used some long drives into the strike

Saturday, November 2nd, the Juniors defeated the Seniors 4-0 in their annual hockey game this season. The Red Devils led consistently throughout, beginning with a 2-0 advantage gained during the first half of the game. A penalty corner gave an opening for the first goal for the Juniors, then a clever pass to the forward line and a rush through opponents goal sent the ball into the cage a few minutes after the game started. Following constant reinforcement from the back line the third classmen passed through the opponents defense for another goal close to the end of the first half.

The Juniors used substitutions score against the lower classmen.

The Freshmen were forced to play a defensive game in an attempt to off-set the 4th Classmen's tricky passwork. After considerable scrimmage in the center of the field the Senior backs sent the ball to right wing for a long pass into the Freshmen's cage for a goal. It took the same combination to score the next point in less than five minutes for the Seniors.

With the beginning of the second half the Freshmen team was taken by the Seniors, the ball was sent to the forward line then rushed into the 1st Classmen's goal for another score to the Seniors credit.

After crossing sticks at center the Freshmen played fast and furiously toward the upper classmen's goal but were unable to drive through the striking circle. Several minutes before the last half ended the Senior half checked the Freshmen's attack. The forward line sent a long drive into the opponents' goal, adding another point to the Seniors', three making a total of 4-0 in favor of the Seniors.

freely in the last half, planning several different combinations to offset the keen rally of the Senior team.

The "Senior" squad threatened the Juniors' half of the field early in the second half and hammered at the Devil cage repeatedly. Accurate defensive play sent the ball down to the Juniors' forward line time after time. In the last few minutes the third classmen, did some smooth zig-zag passing into the opponents cage for a third goal and a fast centered ball from the wing added another tally for the Juniors before the final whistle.

A well aimed clearing shot from the Senior back line was received by the center forward and dribbled down for another goal. Then almost directly after the bully was taken at center the Seniors rushed the opponents cage again to make a score of 3.
